AN IMPORTANT SUIT. The case of J. M. Vaun against the Favetteville Building Association was taken up yesterday in the Supreme Court. An investment of at least a half million of dollars will depend upon the decision of this suit. An injunction had been granted against the Association by Judge Buxton preventing the sale of the sale of the mortgaged property. The Building Association appealed. The case opens up the question of usury and affects all the Associations in the State. The question is whether or not an Association in this way can redeem its shares. The plaintiff here claims it was a usurious loan and not a sale or a redemption. Mr. Wm. A. Guthrie appears for the plaintiff, and Messrs. J. W. Hinsdale and J. C. MacRae for the Association.

HOGS VERSUS SHEEP

We published the other day a short article from the Hillsboro Recorder advising the country to raise more mutton and there would not be such a dependence upon hogs for a summer supply of meat. In yesterday's News was given the number of sheep in each county as reported at the Auditor's office in this city. To-day we will give a few of the largest hog raising counties and compare the number of hogs with the number of sheep in each county. For instance Robeson county claims by odds the largest number of hogs, thirty-four thousand five bundred and sixtyeight, and has only eight thousand and four sheep; over four to one. Wake comes next with twenty-seven thousand one hundred and forty hogs, and has only nine thousand and four sheep; about three to one. Then is Sampson with twenty-five thousand two bundred and twentyseven hogs, and seven thousand six hundred and seventy-two sheen; over three hogs to a sheep. Chatham is more nearly balanced than any other county; she has twentythree thousand two hundred and forty bogs, and fifteen thousand sheep. Johnston county has twentytwo thousand two hundred and twenty-three hogs, and six thousand one hundred and seven sheep; over three to one. Lenoir has fourteen thousand six hundred and nine hogs, and one thousand eight hundred and sixteen sheep; fourteen to one. Beaufort has fourteen thousand five hundred and nineteen hogs, and thirty-two hundred sheep; over four to one. Cumberland has fifteen seventy-eight hogs, and forty-eight hundred sheep; over three to one. Davidson has fourteen thousand two hundred and eighty-nine hogs and one thousand and fourteen sheep. Edgecombe has fifteen thousand one hundred and twenty-four hogs and one thousand four hundred and fiftytwo sheep. Iredell has thirteen thousand and five hundred hogs and six thousand seven hundred and eighty-three sheep. Franklin has thirteen thousand six hundred and twenty-two hogs and four thousand one hundred and sixty-six sheep. Pitt has seventeen thousand four hundred and one hogs and one thousand seven bundred and forty-six sheep. Rowan has thirteen thousand hogs and four thousand three hundred and thirty-two sheep. We have given the counties that raise the largest number of hogs and the portion all over the State will average over three hogs to one sheep BIRTHDAY OF GEN. LEE.

The anniversary of the birth of Robert E. Lee will be celebrated in this city next Wednesday the 19th by the parade of the Raleigh Light Infantry, Gen. Lee was a lion in battle and at home the smallest child might lead him. Dr. Vaughn said last Sunday that tenderness even to tears in a brave man was necessary to the perfection of his moral element, and he cited the case of Stonewall Jackson, at one minute charging amid blood and slaughter, at the cannon's mouth, and the very next, cutting the gold lace from his military cap to please the fancy of a sunny haired child. So it was with General Lee, his fondness for children. The following beautiful instance of this kind is related by the Petersburg Index Appeal: In calling one day in Petersburg upon the accomplished lady of the gallant and lamented General A. P. Hill, his bright little girl met him at the door and exclaimed, with that familiarity which the kind hearted old hero had taught her: "O General Lee, here is 'Bobby Lee' (holding up a puppy); do kiss him." The General pretended to do so, and the little girl was delighted.

One of the most terrible Kerosene calamities we ever heard of is mentioned in the Cincinnati papers. "The people in one of the principal streets were suddenly appalled by Mrs. Bickford, a young and pretty woman, rushing about among them. She was a perfect mass of flame from head to foot; the long spires of flame raised several feet above her head-and flared out from her body in every direction. The crowd attempted with their hats and hands to extinguish the flames, which were burning fiercely. A blanket was at last brought and thrown around her smothering the fire, but not until every shred of her clothir burned to ashes, and the hor sof he skirt heated to a red heat de ply imbedded in her quivering flesh mond Enquirer, June 30, 1875.

My little daughter knocked a large glass lamp, holding perhaps a quart of "Astral Oil" from off the supper table. The lamp was broken to pieces and the burning wick fell into the oil without taking fire. This accident occurring in the midst of my family, I am satis-fied had the lamp been filled with Kerosene Oil that the consequence would have been most lamentable. I would not be without the oil at any cost, and, judging from this accident, I regard it as harmless as

ALL AND GET A CHICULARIC

[A CARD.] TO THE PUBLIC.

For the past six months, Mr. Josiah Turner of the Sentinel has been pleased to allude to me in his paper in terms not very complimentary.

To those who know both myseli and Mr. Turner, explanation is unnecessary; but to those at a distance deem it necessary to make some ex planation, notwithstanding my great dislike to a newspaper quarrel.

I will now give my version of the story and leave the matter for the public to judge:

Mr. Turner calls me stockholder Blacknall, and alleges that I am run n both the Hotel and NEWS by Ring

My connection with the NEWS amounts to simply this: When Messrs. Stone & Uzzell sold out their interest in the paper, they were owing me for board five hundred and twelve dollars and eighty eight cents; this amount they proposed to pay by note, or I should take five hundred dollars stock in the paper. I accepted the latter, thereby giving Mr. Turner so much cause for complaint. Previous to that time, (about July 1874,) I had no connection direct or indirect with the paper.

Mr. Turner says the ring, through stockholder Blacknall, set up Bob Furman of the Asheville Citizen to vilify and abuse him. About the latter part of the year 1865, Mr. Robt. M. Furman, a mere youth, commenced the publication of a small paper in Henderson;-having but limited means-he came to me for help. I loaned him two hundred dollars, which he promptly paid. A few years thereafter, Mr. Furman sold out his interest in Henderson to go to Ports mouth, Va., and start another enterprise, This time I advanced him four hundred dollars, which he afterwards paid. After I moved to Raleigh Mr. Furman was at his home in Louisburg, out of employment, and frequently sought my advice as to starting a paper in Raleigh or Charlotte. Finding the Asheville Citizen for sale, he negotiated for its purchase, and the third time called on me for aid. Having faithfully paid me all back dues, I felt no hesitation whatever in helping him again and I feel no hesitation in saying Mr. Furman has more contempt for anything like rings or corruption than Mr. Turner pretends to have.

Mr. Turner has much to say about my trying to buy him out for the ring. A few years since a party of gentlemen, six or seven in number, sent for me to room No. 8 in the Hotel. When I walked in one of them asked me, "What will buy the Sentinel?" My reply was, "I have no idea, and do not know even if it is for sale." Another asked, "Will you see Mr. Turner and find out, and let us know to-night?" I replied, "I will; but would first like to know what object you have in view?" A gentleman who was lying on the bed, and had not spoken up to this time, arose and said, "My object is to get the money Turner borrowed to make the purchase."

This is all I know about buying out Mr. Turner; nor have I ever known any ring or combination for any purpose whatsoever.

Mr. Turner says, "Stockholder Blacknall claims that I owe him five hundred and seventy five dollars for board-but I have an account against the stockholder, and when we settle there may be nothing coming to him." Mr. Turner boarded himself and family with me until his account ran up to near eight hundred dollars. When we settled, after deducting his account in full, he gave his note for five hundred and seventyfive dollars which I now hold.

Some time after he left some mention was made in the Sentinel about my owing him. Mr. Fuller, my clerk, called at his office and asked for a statement of account so that he might settle. Mr. Turner replied: "I will Mr. Dudly to have it made out ly to-m 'rrow." Mr. Fuller called as in and again, probably ten or twenty times, and every time receiving the same reply from either Mr. Turner or his son, the manager, that he should have the statement in a few hours, but up to this time I have never had it.

Mr. Turner says, "How could stockholder Blacknall if not run by the Ring, set up news-papers, and furnish the Yarbrough House with forty five thousand dollars worth of new furniture, when he cannot or will not pay Mrs. Happer for the rent of her Hotel at Weldon?" In 1866, I rented the Weldou Hotel of Mrs. Cornelia Happer and put Capt. J. C. Howard there to manage it After two years had elapsed, finding the business neither pleasant or profitable, I proposed to her agent that I would for the unexpired term relinquish my furniture in the house if he would annul the contract with me. This he consented to do, and if the party taking my place has failed to pay any part of the last year's rent, why,it is no fault of mine. And as to buying twenty-five thousand dollars worth of furniture for the Yarbrough House-let me assure Mr. Turner that I had no difficulty in buying what furniture I needed, having dealt for the past twenty years in most of the Northern cities and promptly met every engagement I had at the time I made the purchase; and I have now unlimited credit, and furthermore, outside of my bankers I have never sought nor had the aid direct or indirect of any one towards helping me meet my payments; notwithstanding, I have many kind friends who would cheerfully aid me were I to ask it. Mr. Turner says: "His bills for entertaining editors and railroad men must be five thousand dollars for five years." Now, really, this is the unkindest ent of all. I commenced the hotel business at Kittrell Springs in 1860—and have been in it off and on ever since, and if I have met with success in the business, most is due to the aid received from my good friends of the press, the pulpit and tailroad; and when in my power I have gladly reciprocated their kindum being determined their kinduse—being determined they should never accuse me of ingratitude, called one of the member traits in a person's character. I will never turn back on old friends. If Mr. Turner will take the trouble to refer to the account rendered him by Mr. Fuller he will find a deduction of twenty-five per cent. allowed him on account of being an editor.

In conclusion, both Mr. Turper and myself have lived in Raleigh for the past five years, and have dealt with dry goods men, butchers, bankers, grocers, hucksters, laborers-and they can tell who pays debts and who dodges them. Talk is easy; but only have many transactions with a man for a number of years and you will see of what material he is made.

I make the above statement not apologetically, nor in deprecation; but that the public may see upon what absurd foundation Mr. Turner has erected the fabric which has been the staple of his paper so long. He may possibly, by repeating it so often, believe it is true. None who know me are so weak as to do so, and for those who do not, the above will furnish sufficient refutation. Very respectfully,

There is every sign of prosperity about his place. Besides a display of cosmetics, wigs, chignons, curls, costly ornamental combs, and other beautiful things for toilet use, there is in each of the two large bay windows of his shop a waxen figure, the bust and head of a ady, exquisitively coiffed. One is a de, the other a brunette. Within the pedesial which supports each of the figures is machinery which, being wound up, keeps each figure slowly revolving, thus showing the tout ensemble of her exquisitely dress-ed blonde or jetty tresses. We studied these figures curiously for a moment and entered the shop. Like a true Parisian, Monsieur G— intrusts the management of his shop to Madame G-. She sat behind the desk and gave assent at once to our request for information in regard to the make up of women.

She has taken her bath before leaving home, and has put on all her unthe ball that evening. She wears for the drive to us a plain black skirt and a loose redingote, which she removes, and takes her seat. She knows beorehand that her make up will cost bout fifty dollars; that will include the cost of hair. She is gray, and her bair is also thin. We brush it all from her temples, forehead and neck. The hair that grows on temple and neck and around the ears we darken with a dressing of mascuro. Here it is." And she opened a little box con-taining a cake of dark substance, of the consistence of soap, a small black pristle brush, smaller than a tooth brush, and with a tiny mirror in the top. She continued:

"This comes in all shades from blonde to black; it is not a dye, only a dressing. It would not do to apply to all the hair, but it effectually tinges all of the lady's hair that will be visible after we have finished her coiffure. Gentlemen purchase a great deal of mascaro for their beards. It ve call him Le Grand Panafieu After this dressing is applied we gather all the lady's hair in a flat coil on the top of her head. We fasten it on sud the front also with these fine, invisible hair pins. If any of the gray hair is not hidden we touch that part with mascaro, or put on a little puff, or a curl, or a frizzette. We now proceed to remove the peignoir or wrapper which we placed around the lady's shoulders when we began to dress her bair. Madam showed us the kind of curly hair, with each separate hair drawn into a piece of white hair lace, and knotted there so firmly that it would be easier to pull out the hair from the head itself, than from the lace of such a front. Placed over the flesh of the hand the lace is invisible, and the hair looks as if growing out of the skin. It is easy to see that such a front would be a perfect deception. Placed directly over the parting of the lady's hair it simulates the natural growth to perfection.

Madame continued: "We draw

We begin at the hands, go up the arms, pencil them on the fair neck, on the sides of the face, on the temples and the forehead. This requires the nic st care and some knowledge of anatomy, dom. Then with the same pencil we trace a delicate line under each eye, and shade off the same with a clean leather stamp or pencil. Some use fard Indien for this purpose; but it is a mistake. That is a very coarse make-up which is easily seen through. When we have finished with one of our carefully studied make-ups, the lady looks as natural as she does beautiful."

'And how long will it last?" "Until the lady finds it necessary to wash her skin," was the reply.

"Please proceed with the pro-"Now comes the nicest part of all— the application of the color. Here are a dozen different shades of rouge. If our lady is made up for a blonde, she will requirer pale orange; if for a brunette dark. Some times it takes ten minutes or more to get precisely the right shade. At last it is found, and we go on. We tint the cheeks shading off with kid or buckskin stamps on the side of face and to-ward the nose and eyes. We tingle the nostrils in the same manner, also the chin and the ears, for a healthy woman always has as much color around her nostrils, chin and ears as on her cheeks. The tips of her flug-ers and the palms of her hands are also gone over. Then the lips, which requires an unguent red which is also brought out in different shades tle mouches or beauty spots, and attach the long curls, and the make-

"I have described the finest and most artistic make up of all, and also the costliest. The lady pays us $50, and all the cosmetiques and hair that has been used is here; and as she sits before the mirror ded with nesses the whole operation she knows how to make herself up on future occasions, and she has a supply of cosmetiques for all the bails of the season. I assure you I have made up many a woman of over fifty in this manner, and you would declare that she was not more than twenty-five; but she must know how to complete the effect with the robes that she wears. Above all she must select her necklace with care, and if possible, wear laces around her neck to soften the hard outlines that betr vage even more than wrinkles."

Without vouching for the correctness of Madame's statements regard. ing the harmlessness of the cosmetiques that are approved by the medical family of Paris, we have given her words to the readers of The Sun. They must judge for themselves.

Jesus Christ is the only Saviour No one else can know our need of salvation. No one else can understand the depth of the danger in which we stand or appreciate our weakness and the uselessness of every attempt at self-deliverance. No one understands the needs of man, all the complex relations of man, whole nature of man so fully as He, who is the Son of man. No one else is wise enough to plan our rescue, loving enough to undertake it, strong enough to carry it through, righteous enough to offer a runsom for others. No one knows the demands of God; His right to our obedience; His, willing love; His mercy and His just! so thoroughly as He who is the Son of God—He who is Son of Man and Son of God. Jesus Christ is our only Saviour.

California's wool clip last year was fifty million of pounds! What was that of North Carolina? We presented yesterday from the Auditor's books a catalogue of counties with the number of sheep in each, and we are ashamed to admit it is a very contemptible exhibit. Two sections of the State invite to unlimited sheep husbandry. One embraces the whole mountain region, full ten thousand square miles, where climate, grazing and extent of range invite to the multiplication of sheep and the perfection of the most improved breeds. The other is the "piney woods" country of equal extent, and with equal excellence of grazing, though perhaps not so advantageous in climate for the improvement of wool. And all the intermediate region, more limited in range on account of a denser population, is yet equally suited to the raising of sheep. Why does not the industry expand? Why does not the number of sheep increase instead of diminishing? There is but one answer: Dogs! Dogs!

THE WILMINGTON JOURNAL in its last issue presents an exhibit of the foreign tonnage entered at that port for 1875, which is as great as gratifying. The number of vessels was not only increased, but the vessels themselves were of a larger class.-The Journal says that in 1867 the total number of arrivals at that port was 57, of which only 20 were from foreign countries and from two ports. In 1872 six nationalities were represented by one hundred and eight vossels, while in 1875, one hundred and eighty-eight foreign vessels, and a total of five hundred and twenty-eight vessels arrived at Wilmington, the grand total of tonnage being 212,605, of which there were 56,497 of foreign.

We are glad to see that the Secretary of War and the Chief of Engineers, especially, commend the works at the mouth of the Cape Fear River to the favorable consideration of Congress. Those works ought not to suffer by any mistaken notion of economy. Retrenchment now will make previous expenditures useless. Continued appropriations for one or two more sessions of Congress will make the work permanent and effective, and fully prepare Wilmington for the great business which the completion of ber railroad system will bring to it.-Congress cannot hesitate, when its wise liberality will be going to commerce another very important entrepot for foreign trade.

THE disgraceful squabble over Singer's immense estate, the disposition of which was to be determined by the establishment of the claim of one of his many wives to be his lawful spouse, is followed by another in Cincinnati over the property of another rich man, Timothy Kirby, under circumstances even more infamous. In the one case several contestants founded their claims upon the semblance of the performance of the forms of marriage under legal sanction. In the other, the vilest of creatures thrust themselves forward with brazen effrontery, side by side with legitimate claimants, to demand their share of the dead man's goods. Both cases are horrible commentaries upon that state of society which guarantees respectability and it is quite probable after the to wealth during the life-time of the possessor, which invests him with all objects of Mr. Blaine will become the attributes of the good citizen, apparent, and the country again and which carefully draws the man- settle down into that harmonious tle of charity over vices which would drive the less fortunate man out from society as a moral leper whose presence was pollution. It is only when death comes to close the career, and this hideous scramble for the unrighteous hoard goes on around the loathsome carcass, that men find out the true secrets of character, and learn what a base divinity they had set up for worship.

THE ONE TERM AMENDMENT. The Committee to whom was referred the proposition to prepare and report an amendment to the Constitution extending the term to six years and making the incumbent ineligible thereafter, reported on Friday, fixing the term at four years, with ineligibility thereafter. The present system involves a danger always threatening the peace of the country, and exposing it to the perfection of ambitious schemes, and all but office-holders agree that the danger must be removed. We prefer-probably the Committee preferred asian original proposition,-a tenure of six years as the limit. But this involves the continuance of Grant another two years. But we have had enough of him, and ought not voluntarily to accept his disastrous rule a day longer than the law has given him.

There was a craven spirit in the suggestion of a compromise with Grant, giving him, in consideration that he would not push his pretensions to another candidacy, an extension of two years. Is there not manliness enough left to tell him and convince him that we have had enough of him? Do we recognize his right to make terms for the measurement of his rule? Are the people the masters, and those they choose to govern them, the servants, or vice versa? Yet the concession proposed by those who object to Grant's farther retention of power, and yet fear to offend him, would argue that he is already so powerful that his tenure depends on his own

The Committee evidently think the thing must be stopped. They have no bargains to make, no resentments to appease, no douceurs to offer. They manfully seize upon the point of danger, and fix without paltering precisely the right remedy.

We favor the term of a six years tenure of the Presidential term, but not at the expense of another two admissible, on the ground that the years of Grant's administration, legal responsibility of the nominal during which time he will so arm and fortify himself that he will bid defiance to the new Constitutional provision, as he has despised all the older ones.

With full knowledge of Grant's character, well did Frank Blair say, "Grant will never quit the White House willingly."

MR. BLAINE AND JEFFERSON DAVI.

The tone of the Republican press. especially at the North, shows a party accepting with alacrity the issues upon which Blaine opens the new campaign for the Presidency. This one, the revival of sectional feeling upon the memories of the war, has been the strong cement which held the Republican party together. It was composed of spurious patriotism, with abundant zeal for national honor, and the glory of the nation. The signal obscuration of the one, and the ineffaceable stains upon the other, weakened the claim of the party to the monopoly of patriotism, and its fall was rapidly approaching unless some spell could be found to recall the waning devotion to the party colors. Blaine and Morton think they have it in that sentiment which has never died out, and which they hope to awaken by those terrible pictures of prison life which will never lose the vivid coloring of their horrors, and which can only be kept out of view by throwing the mantle of oblivion over them. Those are horrors that both sides supped full of. The South can be as easily inflamed as the North by the awakening of its recollection of things it has been wishing for the sake of peace to remove from the field of discussion. Therefore it is neither wise nor patriotic to revive those subjects, if indeed wisdom and patriotism can be associated with a party whose only aim was power, and whose only reward is plunder. But it would be a great mistake to suppose that the whole Northern people are going to be swept away by the current Mr. Blaine has suddenly let loose. Even in the House of Representatives twelve Republicans were found generous or prudent enough to keep themselves out of it. Many of the Northern journals express themselves liberally, first wild burst of excitement, the feeling appropriate to a Centennial

We present the following from the Buffalo Courier which is a fair exposition of

With a view to amassing political, capital for his presidential canvass Mr. Blaine proposed to exempt Jefferson Davis from the general amnesy bill. The measure introduced by Mr. Randall would have given Mr. Davis no advantage other than what ail pardoued persons—even convicts, enjoy. It would have given him the general qualification for public office, which every citizen entitled to the which every citizen entified to the political rights of citizeneship possesses. His public life, moreover its definitely closed; there was not the smallest chance that he ever could be elected or appointed to an important position. He was utterly powerless, Ithough a man may have power and influence without being the occupant of official position. Of all the prominent leaders of the rebellion Davis possesses least of the sympathy of puthern citizens; and for the little which they have bestowed on him he s chiefly indebted to the severity with which he was treated after bi capture at the close of the war.— Now, upon this almost forgotten man, the leader of the Republican minority in the house has conferred a new importance. Jefferson Davis has once more played a prominent part in the debates of congress. The unstatesmanlike character of Mr. Blaine's proposition was so evident that it even failed to promote his in terests as a politician. People would not recognize Davis as the embodi-ment of the rebellion, and Mr. Blaine was therefore compelled make a change of front. He admit-ted that in his connections with the rebellion "Davis was as "guilty, no more so no less so, than thousands of others who will get the benefits of peace and amnesty," and that ex-ception on the ground that Dayis was as he is so commonly called, the head and front of the rebellion would not be "tenable." Mr. Blaine would except him, however, because he be lleves Davis to be the author of the

Andersonville horrors and that he that great crime. It is unnecessary to examine the merits of this charge

it is equally unnecessary to show that upon it congress cannot bring Davis

eliberately and wilfully instigated

If he really was guilty of the crime against humanity, common law and the rules of civilized warfare imputed o him, he ought to have been tried after the war in the only legal manner, and the only adequate punish ment would have been the penalty of death. Mr. Blaine, however, knows that the political disabilities of Jef ferson Davis have not the remotest connection with that charge and that their removal would not acquit him of it. He is incligible for State and Federal office under the fourteenth amendment because he "engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States," and for no other reason. Mr. Blaine excepted Jefferson Davis because, in the words of the amendment introduced by the ex-Speaker, Davis is "late President of he so-called Confederate States,' These words show the true and original ground of the exemption, and apparently Mr. Blaine has only shifted from it to seek an excuse for his own blunder. Such an exemption although not reasonable, was at least f the rebellion than that of other confederates. political attainder on account of murder, of which the accused person has never been convicted, through a diversion of a constitutional provision from its true intent and purpose, is utterly inadmissible. By his decla ration Mr. Blaine has made it impossible for the House of Representatives to adopt his amendment. He has succeeded, however, in stirring up afresh the passions of the war period in displaying the arts of a demagogue and in waving the bloody shirt in manner which his rival. Morton, might well envy. How shallow is the pretext which Mr. Blaine finally urged on behalf of his amendment was shown by Mr. Cox, who called attention to the fact that the ex speaker gave his full assent to an amesty bill, including Davis, at the last session of congress.-Buffale

Courier. The Silver Regions of the World.

VALUE OF THE MINES AND HOW THEY ARE WORKED. In 1850. Nevada was not reckoned among the silver-producing regions. Mexico and South America in that year, produced $35,000,000 worthnearly five times the amount obtained in the same year from Europe, Asia and Africa. The production of Pied mont in that year, was greater than that of any other section of the Las-tern continent, and was represented about $1,000,000; while Russia, Norway, Saxony, Spain, the Hartz Mountains, and Devoushire, and Cornwall, in England produced the remainder. India has often been represented as destitute of silver, but we have statements from Sir Rode. rick Murchison and other travelers, that the Kulu Valley is so rich in ore and metallic silver that it might be made to yield enormous revenues for ages to come. What was once known as the silver country of the Vazurs, comprises the mountainous country lying between the Beas, Sainji and Palbutti rivers. The mines, although in the palmy days of India worked to a considerable extent, are now almost forgotten, surely by the inhabitants of the region itself. The Manikarn mines in the same valley, are known to be incalculably rich, but are now unworked. The Indian authorities, and even the people themselves, lay every obs'acle in the way of developing them for fear of im-poverishing the country.

In the first three centuries after the discovery of America it has been computed that 150,000 tons of pure silver were exported from Peru and Mexico alone. This would be suffic-ient to form a solid globe of silver one hundred feet in diameter. Considering the rude manner of working ores at that day, this is no trifle. The difference between mining in Peru and mining in Mexico, is only in the climate of the silver regions. The Potosi mine which has yielded enor mous quantities of silver is an elevation as great as that of the summit of Mont Blanc, in a region of perpetual snow. The mines of Mexico are on the middle lands, where neither from nor great heat is felt. The vast miueral wealth of Peru has been develop-ed by the patient industry of the na-tive Indians. They live almost

Money.

A very romantic story is told of the Salcado mine, which has been lost for a hundred years. Salcado was a young Spaniard who fell in laye with and married an Indian girl, where-per week average about $1.50 in our liver mine of fabulous richness, as yet unworked. Salcado, with aid of his wife, found the mine, d making friends with the Indians, e commenced work upon it. In a few years he was enormously rich. Spanish Governor envious of his prosperity, and designing to secure the nine to bimedif caused a charge of conspiracy to be made against him under which he was arrested, tried and condemned, although the charge was entirely fictitious. When waiting execution he promised the Governor De Lemos, that if he would sllow the proofs to be sent to Mad-rid and be inspected by the King, there should be paid to him a huured pounds of silver every day unreturn. As the voyage one way in those days consumed about sixteen months, it is readily seen that the ransom was enormous. Salcado was executed. The avaricious Governor hastened to the mine, but the mine was gone. It has never been found. The widow and her devoted Indians had determined that the murderer should never be rewarded for this crime, and they had flooded the mine and buried it in such a manner that discovery was impossible.

The richest silver mine in the world, probably, is the Pottochi, or, in our vernacular Potosi-the Collar being named from it. It i near La Plata, and was discovered in 1545. It has always been worked in 1545. It has always been worked in a rude manner, but yet it is said to have already produced $250,000,000 worth of the precious metal. For many years sixteen hundred Indians were employed in it, and being slaves, so cruelly were they worked that they decreased rapidly and their places were immediately filled by others. At the present time two thousand paid men are employed, and the mine yields well and shows no signs of exhaustion.

The total silver production in the world from the year 1850 to 1875, has been estimated to be $1,025,000,000, the United States producing one-tenth of the entire amount. The yield of Mexico is at present at the rate of $20,000,000 annually. Peru is falling gradually, behind, the yield for the year 1874 being but little over $3,000,-000. The mines of Chili, Bolivia are being rapidly developed, and will soon furnish a material item in the annual production. In 1867, Nevada proudly pointed to a yield of $12,500, 000. The production for the present year will probably exceed $25,000,000 The annual production of the Idaho mines is about $4,000,000 or as much as the famous mines of Peru. Colo rado, in 1875, is estimated to have produced bullion in the amount of Something of Interest to the Old Folks, and to the Boys and Girls. The Boston Journal, in a recent issue, says: "Picture to yourself what a magazine for children ought to be —how bright and winning in con-tents, how pure and stimulating in teaching, how respleadent with pictures, and then turn over the pages of ST. Nicholas, and you will find your ideal realized."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says:

St Nicholas is an institution of which Young and Old America are as proud as England is of Punch. A use without ST. NICHOLAS," coninues the writer, "does not deserve to own any boys and girls; no dog should wag its little tail while press ing its nose through the area railings; emphatically, we would observe that should the sun condescend to shine upon that house, his solar majesty would make a big mistake."

The first volume of Sr. Nicholas was a surprise even to the public that had heartily welcomed it, number by number. Newspaper critics expressed enthusiastic, approval; children and parents were alike delighted, and congratulatory letters from distinguished men and women poured in mon the publishers and editor. in upon the publishers and editor. Charles Dudley Warner wrote: "I do not see how it can be made any better, and if children don't like it, it is time to change the kind of children in this country;" Whittier, our great poet, wrote: "It is little to this magazine that it is, the best child's periodical in the world;"
and words of hearty commendation came across the ocean from such earnest workers and popular favorites of the young as Geo. Macdonald, Christina Rossetti, and Canon Kingsley.

Beautifully bound, superbly illustrated, and filled with good things from the best writers (including three long serial stories), the first volume of ST. NICHOLAS, complete in itself, is a finer Christmas gift for girls and boys to day than any single book in the market, excepting

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1875, Which, with its magnificent pic-tures, its two complete serials, and its innumerable shorter stories, sketches, poems, fairy tales, rhymes and jingles, bits of wisdom, its French, German and Latin stories-its fun and its puzzles, Jack-in-the-pulpit, the Letter-box, &c., &c., is even more superbly attractive. ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1874 AND 1875, 4

Vols.

For the convenience of libraries, and because many children find the two large volumes for '74 and '75 rather bulky to handle, we have had these twenty-four numbers bound in four elegant volumes, and inclosed in a neat box, under the general title of THE ST. NICHOLAS LIBRARY.

These four volumes are sold for $8. being only two dollars a volume a beautiful and valuable Christma resent for an entire family of young folks.

The New York Tribune says: "In the avalanche of immoral literature that threatens the children, some strong, vitally wholesome, and really attractive magazine is required for them, and St. Nicholas has reached a higher platform, and commands for this service wider resources in art and letters, than any of its predecessors or contemporaries."

The Sunday School Times says: "A cleaner, purer, more trustworthy periodical for children cannot be nam The magazine does not claim to be religious, but it is on the side of all that is true and good, from beginning

The religious press all over the country heartily commends ST. NICHOLAS, and virtually echoes the pinion of the New York Christian inion, that it is "a delightful magazine for all children between five and eighty seven."

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1876 Promises even greater attractions than the previous volumes. A strong feature of the new volume is an American Serial Story.

"THE BOY EMIGRANTS," BY NOAH BROOKS,

Giving the adventures of a party of boys on their long journey across the plains, with a vivid portraiture of their Life in California during the days of the Gold Fever. Mr. Brooks brings to this work, in addition to his well-known literary gifts, a thorough familiarity with the features of that wild country and the people then flocking toward it. What he has to say of them is pervaded with a subtle and intense savor of reality that enables the reader to follow the characters in their adventures with a positive sense of companionship. The contagion of the "goldfever; the great difficulties and perils which beleaguered their journey across the plains and mountains, and finally the adventurous, half-civilized, and yet, in a certain rude way, poetic life in the mines of California, are all described with wonderful truthfulness and skill. Add to this the elevated tone pervading the work, and the irresistible attraction which such a narrative possesses for loys, and the value of this stirring, healthy serial becomes evident. There is to be another and shorter serial, beginning in January and running through three numbers: JON OF ICELAND," BY BAYARD

TAYLOR. A delightfully vivid story of an Ice-landic boy's career, full of incidents, which could happen in noother country, and graphically touching upon the customs, life, and general features of that strange land. The best general reading for boys and girls is insured by a list of present and promised contributors, among whom are:

William Cullen Bryant, George Macdonald, Christina Rosetti, Louiea M. Alcott, J. T. Trowbridge, T. B. Aldrich, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Abby Morton Disz, Harriet Prescott Spotford, Donald G. Mitchell, H. H., Edmund C. Stedman, Lucy Larcom, Charles Dudley Warner, Bret Harte, Frank R Stockton, Elizabeth Akers Allen, T. W. Higginson, Lucretta P. Haie, Prof. R. A. Proctor, Mrs. Oliphant and Rev. Edward Eggleston. Special papers are secured or promised, viz: Astronomy for Young Folks (Prof. Proctor) Chapters on Windsor Castle and English History (Mrs. Oliphant); Talks With Girls (Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, H. H., Louisa M. Alcott, Susan Coolidge and Mrs. Dodge); Little Housekeepers' Pages (Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household"). Also, Incidents of American History, Practical Handwork for Boys and Girls, Sketches of Adventure and travel, Fairy Tales, and Stories of Home Life. A Young Contributors' department is to be added to the well known and approved Regular Features; and, in short, the Magazine will be made as useful, lively, and entertaining as the purest and best writers and artists can make it. Some of the finest works of the great painters have been engraved for ST. NICHOLAS, and its illustrations for 1876 will surpass anything ever yet attempted in Juvenile literature. $3.00 A YEAR; $4 FOR BOUND VOL. We will send the magazine on Mutiny on an American Ship.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 15.-The American ship Caravan, Capt. Waefeloer which left the Waterloo dock at this place at one o'clock yesterday for New York, had proceeded but a few miles down the river as far as New Brighton, when a scene of great vi-olence occurred abourd. The Capt. states that the crew who shipped just before the departure of the ship were all drunk. As soon as the Caravar got out into the river, the crew, who had been ordered to duty, became insubordinate and threatened to kill himself as well as the officers. He therefore signalled to the river police who promptly boarded the Caravan and took two of the ringleaders into custody. The remainder of the crew were left lying drunk aboard the deck. A sailor was very seriously injured during the riot. The Caravan is detained in order to ship a fresh

The South Carolina Congressiona Contest.

WASHINGTON, Jan 15.—The elec tion committee have decided to take the map as evidence in the third South Carolina Congressional dis trict contest which shows that one county is seperated 25 miles from the rest of the districts, and is plainly in violation of the act of Congress. The committee, however, before acting, will enquire into the manner of passing the act by the Legislature, and if satisfied it was done for preventing representation to the minority, Hoge will be unseated. The question unseating the balance of the delegation is not before the committee, it is a mere side suggestion.

The Chronicle on Gen. Gordon. The Chronicle makes amends for the misrepresentation of Gen. Gordons views on the amnesty question. It now correctly represents Gen. Gordon's position as follows:

"He (senator Gordon) is opposed to any conditions connected with amnesty but wishes it free and universal. He will not vote for a bill which sent to be a party to a discrimination against the ex-confederate president. If however a bill for universal amnesty cannot be passed without attaching to it the proposed oath to support the Constitution he would vote for the bill with such an amend-

President Mc Mahou's Proclamation. PARIS, Jan 15 .- President Mc Mahon's proclamation has fallen rather flat. The republican newspapers which were expected to gree it with sharp criticisms appear with the exception of a few irreconcilables delighted with the recognition of the republic and the appeal for a fair trial of the constitutional laws at Bourse produced no effect in po litical circles. The prevalent opinion is it leaves things where they were. Satisfaction is generally felt at the adjustment of the ministerial crisis but it is utterly devoid of enthu-

Our special from Staunton announces the re-election of the Hon. A. H. H. Stuart to the House of delegates over his competitor. Captain Opic. The wellrecognize i financial abilities of Mr. Stuart will make him a valuable acquisition to the House at this juncture, when so much depends upon a proper solution of the grave questions that are about to come before that body.-Richmond Whig.

"There exists." says the Atlanta correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle "a growing conviction that all exemption laws ought to be repealed. Men of business experience say no capitalist in the world will seek Georgia as long as she maintains such a system of laws—laws that will not secure creditors in their investments unless they be dealing every time with an honest man,"

The Hon. William Welch of Madison, of Wis., has proposed a system of suffrage remarkable at least for its novelty. His idea is to give each man wenty one years old one vote; each man of forty-two years old two votes, and each man sixty three years old upon the fact that patriotism, a sense of public duty and political integrity come with the knowledge which is the fruit of age and experience.

A little daughter of General Thomas Jordan, formerly chief of General Beauregard's staff, and more lately an officer in the Republican army of Cuba killed herself last Saturday by the accidental discharge of a pistol. Her father had sent he to his overcoat pocket to look for some bon bons he had brought her and finding a small pistol which he carried, she placed it to her head and discharged it, the ball lodging in the and causing instantaneous brain death.-Exchange.

Miss Hardy, the eldest daughter of Admiral Hardy, in whose arms Nelson expired, is dead. She was the occupant of a suite of rooms in Hampton Court Palace, allotted to her by the Queen. The musket-ball by which Nelson was killed was for Captain Hardy, who had it mounted in crystal and silver as a locket. It is believed now to be in the possession of the Queen.

Loving Wife-Husband, dear, don't forget to send the dressmaker around so that I can have my dress finished before Sunday sure." Hus-band—"Now, Sarah, there is no fret about that dress; guess the heavens won't fall if it is not done this week."
Wife—"John! you know that next Sunday is communion, and I have not a single dress but that I have worn to communion at least twice. They'll all know me by the clothes I wear before a great while."

Augusta J. Evans, the author of 'Beulah," "Macaria," "St. Elmo," 'Vashti," and "Infelice," is about 40 years of age and the wife of a rich man who lives at Mobile, Ala. s said by those who know her to be one of the best educated women in America. An admiring correspondent says: "It is just as natural for her to write of classic shades and quote foreign languages as it is for her o write at all. Within eight years her publisher has paid her $100,000 as er share of the profits arising from the sale of her books."

Scrumptious weddings they have n Mississippi. At the last one we are told that the bride was "exquisitely attired in heavy white gros-grain silk, with trailling wreaths of starry asmine and milky myrtle blooms, as delicately perfect as if fashioned by by the fairy hand of nature. Over the white splendor of the silk, toning its gloss into a glimmer, dashed foamy waves of illusion, as if the sea of happiness that seemed stretching cut at her feet had flung up visible white spray to bless her bridal garments. Drowned in her bridal cornet, half hidden in the fleecy folds of her wedding-veil, this young lady reminded one of a radiant star in a veil of mist." Now let the band play.
